

AFDW Safety Vision

Daniel A. DeVoe
Major General, USAF
Commander

The protection and preservation of personnel and resources directly affects our ability to execute our mission on behalf of the nation. A commitment to safety must be reflected at every level of this organization. I charge commanders and supervisors at all levels to develop a culture that incorporates safety into every aspect of their mission sets. Mishaps and near misses must be thoroughly investigated to root out unsafe practices. It is incumbent upon each of us to make safety a priority, to identify and mitigate hazards, reduce risk, and preserve our most valuable asset, the human weapons system – our Airmen. Join me in committing to never losing an Airman to a preventable mishap. Safety begins and ends with you.
